The Elsevier Canada Book Award for Entering the Profession of Nursing

Introduction

Elsevier Canada is a part of Elsevier, the world's leader in health science publications. We are committed to publishing a broad spectrum of the highest quality resources for health science professionals.

Established in 2002 as the Mosby-Saunders Canada Book Award, the re-named Elsevier Canada Book Award for Entering the Profession of Nursing will be awarded annually to the first year student nurse who submits the best essay (500 words) prepared around the following topic: "Why I chose to study the profession of nursing"

The award will be $500 (based on publisher's suggested list price) in books published by Elsevier, including the imprints Mosby and Saunders, to be chosen by the winner from our catalogue of Nursing titles.

Criteria

- The award is available to FIRST year nursing students enrolled in an accredited undergraduate nursing program at a Canadian university or college with current membership in the CNSA.
- The applicant must be in good academic standing in their nursing program.
- The applicant must submit an essay (500 words) prepared around the following topic: "Why I chose to study the profession of nursing"
- Members of the CNSA BOD may not apply for this award during their term of office.

Award Value

Number of Awards: 1 (one) Award Value: $500 in Books

Selection of the Award
